

October 2012

Old Westbury Golf and Country Club Enhances Member Experience

OLD WESTBURY, NY – Nestled in the rolling hills of central Long Island, the Old Westbury Golf and Country Club rightfully prides itself on its beautiful golf course and striking views. This summer, the club enhanced its facilities with a new 10,000 sf addition designed by JGRA, providing dining, lounge and bar space to enhance the Club’s member experience.

“We were fortunate to be able to take advantage of a clubhouse siting rivaled on Long Island only by Shinnecock Hills – a spectacular hilltop located with panoramic views of land falling away toward distant water both North and South,” comments Jim Rogers, FAIA, Founder of JGRA.

Facing north, both the Women’s Card Room and the Grill Room overlook the club’s renowned golf course and provide dramatic views to the horizon. Natural light in all member spaces creates an open feel and enhances the connection to the picturesque natural environment. Rich selection of tones in member spaces provides a comfortable ambience for member lounging.